24/7 Nationwide Repair Service

Need a fast response and the quickest possible return to operational performance?

Efficient and effective management of your repair process will keep your customers buying, your production line running, minimise complaints from uncomfortable staff, and leave call centres undisturbed.

Carrier Service offers a nationwide service for HVAC system repairs. We have a network of engineers located throughout the UK providing emergency and planned repair work to our clients.

Through our extensive knowledge of repairing many clients' HVAC systems, we understand the criticalities of system downtime and we ensure our clients receive a fast and efficient response / repair service, providing you with complete peace of mind.

Trust

Our professional teams carry out complex work with minimum fuss and disruption in the fastest possible time, all within your high expectations of Carrier quality and value for money. Repairs are carried out using genuine original Carrier parts to guarantee the quality of the repair and the durability of the product.

Flexibility

At Carrier, we have experience of working with every type of HVAC system, from various manufacturers and in diverse applications. We have an extensive network of engineers operating throughout the UK, at your disposal 24/7, 365 days a year. We can work around your business requirements and have the scale of operation to manage any size of job.

Optimised Performance

The need to undertake repair work is often an opportunity to make changes that will improve the efficiency of your equipment and overall systems. Our highly qualified engineers and your customer care manager can offer technical advice that may lead to energy savings or more comfortable building occupants. All work can be quoted beforehand and can be scheduled to meet your requirement for the shortest possible downtime.

Accreditation

As a world leading supplier of HVAC products and services, Carrier is a key member of many trade organisations, associations and schemes. Health and Safety is our number one priority which gives the fullest possible reassurance for our clients:
